黄 玉 龙

Huang Yu Long 1983

Born in Anhui, China and graduated with a Bachelor of Fine Art in the Sculpture Department of Jingdezhen Ceramic Institute. Huang Yu Long is an emergent Chinese artist who has participated in several exhibitions in China and overseas; he was selected as one of the “25 Contemporary Chinese Artists You Need to Know” by Complex, an all-time trusted American pop culture magazine, and continues to make waves as a sculptor.

Huang is best known for his artworks of faceless figures in hoodies, displaying an exchange of Eastern tradition and Western contemporary style in his themes of self-reflection, reconstruction, and the relationship an individual will have with their past selves when faced with the possibilities of the future.

People's cognition of their own ability is always beyond their imagination. We need to be controlled by ourselves. We are fighting all the way, not to change the world, but to prevent the world from changing us.
