"When I do more art, more emotions were felt as a result of minimalism."

Patrick was born in Kaohsiung, Taiwan from a poor rural family. Since childhood, he has developed a keen interest in painting. The original paintings were practiced on the soil by branches or sticks. The family has no financial resources to let Patrick learn the formal professional painting skills. When he was in college, he had the opportunity to save his living expenses and purchase oil painting materials.

His paintings are very popular among Europeans and Americans and are widely collected. From art lovers to well-known brand players, there are many senior executives of the world's top 500 companies, all of whom are favourite and collectors of his paintings. Some examples include but not limited to the automotive industry, boutique LV, Dior, Nike, Intel, Macquarie Bank, etc., too many to mention.

Patrick Lee is inspired by freehand brushworks, one of revolutionary landscape painting skills in Chinese painting history. Patrick Lee utilizes acrylic paints to reproduce textures of ink paints. He applies expressive brush lines and colors to imbue illusionistic representations.

Time For A Drink

160 x 160 cm, mixed media on canvas, 2019

Time For A Drink
242 x 242 cm, silkscreen print, 2023

A series of silkscreen prints that imaginatively depict the two former leaders of China and Taiwan, Mao Zedong and Chiang Kai-Shek, with their arms around each other, sharing a bottle of Taiwanese beer. His work blends historical and contemporary themes where the artist represents a scenario of close strength and political relationship between the two leaders and countries.

CAVE ART

Planet Series

165 x 120 cm, acrylic on canvas, 2019

Planet Series

165 x 120 cm, acrylic on canvas, 2019

A round shape planet is painted in bright and warm color. It occupies most of space in a painting. It rises over the horizon and brings a light of hopes in a mysterious land.
